Summary of Experience

Alleen joined Rogers Stirk Harbour + Partners in 2007. She was made an Associate in 2014 and a Senior Associate in 2016.

Alleen started work at the practice as part of the NEO Bankside team, developing the award-winning residential scheme adjacent to the Tate Modern in London. She was primarily focused on the internal fit-out for the apartments, and later involved in developing all aspects of a five-storey mixed-use building and a bespoke garden pavilion within the Bankside development. NEO Bankside was shortlisted for the RIBA Stirling Prize in 2015.

From 2012 – 17, Alleen was the project architect on Burlington Gate, a mixed-use gallery and residential development in London's Mayfair Conservation Area. Alleen worked closely with the Client, Design and Contractor's teams through all work stages to the project's completion, and played a pivotal role on the project, which created the first new public arcade in the area since the 1930s.

Since the completion of Burlington Gate, Alleen has worked on a number of competition bids and feasibility studies.

Currently, Alleen is working on a major extension to the Grade I listed British Library which will provide new facilities to expand the Library's outreach, education, and exhibitions programmes; incorporating a flexible life science hub and future Cross Rail 2 infrastructure in collaboration with TfL.
